Dear Mr Ojoduma,

Thank you for your further correspondence and for taking the time to share the additional information.

We recognise the seriousness of the issues you have raised. As noted previously, the Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office is only able to intervene directly in consular matters involving British nationals, so we are unfortunately not able to take forward action on your individual case.

More broadly, the UK continues to engage with partners across West Africa, including in Benin, on governance, human rights and justice as part of our wider diplomatic engagement in the region.

Thank you again for writing.

Yours sincerely,

West Africa Team
